School No. 7 Pupils Win Legion Flag Contest

Presentation of American Flag to Eighth Grade Pupils Takes Place Friday Morning—St. Peter's School Pupils in Second Place and School No. 5 Third—Standing of Other Schools—The Questions and Answers.

An announcement of great interest to the teachers and pupils of the Kingston public and parochial schools was made Wednesday night by C. J. Heiselman, chairman of the committee on education and Americanism of Kingston Post, American Legion, when he stated that the eighth grade of School No. 7 had won the prize flag in the American Legion Flag Code Contest which was held in all Kingston schools on June 4. The winning class turned in almost perfect papers, their class average being 98.57 per cent. Not only have they earned the highest average ever obtained in this contest, but they showed great improvement over last year, their average last year being only 88.33 per cent. As will be seen from the table below, St. Mary's made the greatest gain over last year.

To St. Peter's, last year's winner, goes the honor of second place, with School No. 5 a close third.

The honor of having the largest number of 100 per cent honor students goes to School No. 5, with 50 perfect papers.

The results follow, showing the per cent made this year as compared with the per cent made last year:

Women Lead in Subscriptions to Hospital Fund

Women's Division Obtains Larger Amount of Subscriptions Than Men's Division and Nearly Double the Number of Subscriptions Obtained by Men.

Two reports of subscriptions to the $300,000 Kingston City Hospital campaign fund have been made by the local force of workers, and the allied towns divisions have reported once. An aggregate of $112,006 has been subscribed of which $82,333 was obtained by local workers and $29,673 by workers in the communities in the counties.

These reports show that 1,156 subscriptions have been made in Kingston. Of this number the women's divisions obtained 745, the men's divisions 376, and the three committees—doctors', executive and industrial, 36. Thus the women have almost doubled the number obtained by the men. Another interesting point is that subscriptions reported by the local force at Wednesday's rally were more than 2 1/2 times the number reported by this same force on Monday.

Women Get More Than Men.

The local force is composed of four divisions, two of men and two of women and three committees. The two divisions of women workers have obtained $29,430 as against $21,811 obtained by the men.

The Women Workers.

Mrs. George Hutton's division of women workers leads the other divisions in the amounts obtained with a total of $14,832 and this in spite of the fact that it has a smaller number of teams than any of the other divisions. But Mrs. William Warren's division is only a few hundred dollars behind and it has 519 subscriptions to its credit, or nearly twice as many as any of the other divisions.

Standing of the Men.

Everett Fowler's division of men workers with a total of $11,175 is several hundred dollars ahead of John Hiltbrand's division but this latter division with 265 subscriptions, has more than double the number obtained by the former.

The three committees have obtained 36 subscriptions amounting to $31,992.

Mrs. Schoonmaker's Subscriptions.

Thirteen memorial subscriptions have been made, one for $5,000 three for $2,400 each, and nine for $1,200 each. The Freeman wishes to correct an error made yesterday in announcing a memorial. Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker, Jr., subscribed for the memorial that was listed as being subscribed for by Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker.

The next meeting of the local force will be at a luncheon at 12:15 o'clock on Friday, June 11, in the state armory, where this force will make a further report of subscriptions obtained.

Chance for Local Play Writers

Phoenix Players of Woodstock Seeking Play for Summer Presentation—New York Managers Will Witness Production Chosen.

Although the Playreading Committee of the Phoenix Players under the direction of Ben Webster has definitely chosen three plays for their second subscription season which opens Saturday, July 3, at the Phoenix Theatre in Woodstock, a fourth play has not as yet been unanimously decided upon. Hence Mr. Webster is planning to give a great opportunity to local playwrights by asking them to send in manuscripts of their three-act plays for reading.

If a suitable play is found, it will be produced in August, thus giving New York managers a chance to see the production and buy it for Broadway production in the fall.

Mr. Webster invites all persons interested to send their typewritten manuscripts to him care of the Phoenix Players, Woodstock, N. Y., but suggests the enclosing of sufficient return postage in case the play is not accepted.

This unusual opportunity is certain to be grasped immediately for it is seldom that the playwrights of Kingston and Ulster county are offered such an opening for the production of one of their plays by an exceptionally fine professional New York company.

TRIAL OF BENNETT DOTY HAS NOT BEEN COMPLETED

Paris, June 10.—No sentence has been passed upon Bennett Doty, otherwise Gilbert Clare, who is on trial for desertion from the French Foreign Legion in Syria, according to a semi-official statement received here today.

The sentence states that reports that Doty has been sentenced to death are untrue. The trial of the British deserter began on June 4 and has not been completed. It was reported.

Members of Hardrock.

There will be a regular meeting of the members of Hardrock Saturday, June 12, at 2:24 p. m. A case of candidates will be submitted to the members of the order. Refreshments will be served.

Believe Smith Will Run Again

Democrats Expect Governor Smith to Accept Nomination Once More—Seek Candidate to Oppose Wadsworth—Convention at Syracuse September 27 and 28.

New York, June 10.—Having decided to hold the Democratic State Convention in Syracuse on September 27 and 28, at the same time the Republicans are meeting in New York, Democratic leaders today were speculating on their chances of persuading Governor Alfred E. Smith to accept the nomination once more.

Governor Smith did not meet with the state committee at the National Democratic Club here, but conferred with party leaders at his Billmore Hotel suite. Although he again proclaimed his desire to retire, it was with noticeably less vigor than a month ago, and opinion was quite general that he could be persuaded to accept the nomination again.

Democratic leaders conferred with Governor Smith at his suite in the Billmore Hotel as to a possible candidate to oppose Senator Wadsworth in the senatorial race. The governor is understood to have advised a delay in pledging his support to any aspirant but suggested that a New York city man would probably make a stronger campaign than an upstate candidate.

Carl Sherman, former state attorney general, an Erie county Democrat, has been an avowed candidate for the senatorial nomination. Another upstate man discussed for the Democratic senatorial candidacy is Representative Meyer Jacobstein, of Rochester. The name of George Carl Shuler, of Lyons, former state treasurer, has also been mentioned.

The New York city men mentioned for the senatorial candidacy are Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner and former Comptroller Charles L. Craig.

A committee was appointed at the Democratic State Committee meeting to choose temporary officers for the convention. The committee consisted of George W. Olvany, John H. McCooey, William H. Kelly, of Syracuse, William H. Bray, of Ulster, and Benjamin W. Moore, of Westchester.

Mrs. Daniel O'Day, of Westchester, associate chairman of the executive committee of the women's division of the Democratic party, today announced a series of regional meetings of Democratic women to be held up-state to strengthen the party.

The first will be held at Buffalo on June 21. Others will be held at Rochester, June 22; Syracuse, June 23; Kenwood, June 24; Saratoga Springs and Plattsburgh, June 25 and 26.

Among those whose licenses were suspended were: Stuyvesant Garage on Clinton avenue, for improper use of plates; Robert E. Thompson, R. F. D. No. 1, Ulster Park, pending investigation of accident; Mrs. Nina Manos, 25 Adams street, charged with reckless driving; Lewis Hasbrouck, R. F. D. Plattkill, charged with reckless driving.

Two Railroad Men Killed.

Shrewsbury, Mass., June 10.—A score of more families started saving out their belongings as flames broke out today against the large ice house of the Commonwealth Ice Company. The building and 11,000 tons of ice were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

Deaths in Path of Train.

Malden, Mass., June 10.—While trying to save a few minutes by making a "short cut" on his way to work, one Deane, 26, jumped over a fence today and dropped in the path of a passenger train. He was instantly killed.

St. John's Vestry Asks Members' Views on Sale

Questionnaire Seeks to Ascertain if They Approve Sale and Whether They Will Contribute Their Share Toward Repairing Church As It Now Stands.

The following letter has been received by the parishioners, communicants and contributors of St. John's Church, Wall street, from the rector and vestry of the church, relative to the proposed sale of the church.

The letter was accompanied by a return postal card asking the recipient of the letter to state whether he or she approved or disapproved of the proposed action of the rector and vestry, answering "Yes or No," on a dotted line. Then the person was asked to state if the property was not sold, whether they would be willing to contribute their share of money toward the repairing and putting into good condition of the church as it now stands, again to answer "Yes or No," and then they were asked to sign their name and address.

To the Parishioners of St. John's Church:

In order to avoid any misunderstanding of the articles which appeared recently in the Kingston papers, your rector and members of the vestry wish to inform you that no sale of our church property has been made, and a new site has not been purchased.

A preliminary investigation, however, has been carried on, in order to intelligently determine the amount for which we could sell the church and parish house.

Your vestry has also learned of a suitable site, and the price for the same.

It would have been impossible, up to this time, to give the congregation any definite information, for the reason that we have not had such information, until now. The letter which was sent to the congregation, last week, was one of the preliminary, necessary steps required by canon, and by the rules of the standing committee of the Diocese, before the committee would consider any suggestion of a possible sale of our church property. As stated, in the previous letter, your vestry recommends a sale of the present site, and the removal of the church and parish house to a new site because such a change would put the property in practically new condition, and leave us with a substantial sum, for an endowment; the interest of this endowment would take care of the annual deficit in the budget. But, if this cannot be done, no change will be made.

Enclosed is an addressed postal card, which is being mailed to our contributors. Will you please reply to the questions on this card, sign your name to it, and mail it?

Sincerely yours,
RECTOR AND WARDENS OF ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Whittemore Will Die on Gallows

Baltimore, June 10.—Richard Reese Whittemore, the most picturesque bandit in recent years, "got the rope" today.

He was brought before Judge O'Dunne this morning, in the same courtroom where a few weeks ago he was convicted of killing Robert H. Holtman, a Maryland prison guard, and heard a sentence of death pronounced upon him from the bench.

No date was set for the execution, that being left to Governor Albert C. Ritchie.

The bandit's attorney has given notice that he will appeal, but it is felt that the appeal is a forlorn hope at best, for the state supreme court a week ago denied a motion for a new trial and found that the "Candy Kid" had been given a fair trial and a just conviction.

The appeal will be made, however, to the court of appeals at Annapolis, the state's highest tribunal.

BLAST KILLS MOTHER AND INJURES DAUGHTER

Chicago, June 10.—Miss Gladys Harvey, a professional dancer, was seriously injured and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Harvey, 45, was killed in a mysterious explosion in their home here today.

"I returned home about 5:20 this morning in a taxi," Miss Harvey explained from her cot in a hospital. "The house was in darkness except for the kitchen. The gas was on there and mother was asleep in a chair."

"I turned off the gas. A terrific blast followed. Mother was hurled out of the chair. I was thrown clear across the room. That's all I know about it."

Dr. Frank C. Harvey, the dead woman's estranged husband, was notified of the tragedy. He hurried to the hospital where he was over- come with grief.

Two policemen hurried to the Scutter home. As they neared it, they heard the shots.

Find Body of Madame Pettine

Renzo, Son of Commendatore And Madame Pettine, Sought in Connection With His Mother's Death at Milan.

Milan, Italy, June 10.—Italian society was shocked to learn of a gruesome tragedy in the family of Commendatore Pettine, which is alleged to involve matricide on the part of the Commendatore's eighteen year old son, Renzo.

Renzo disappeared a fortnight ago and after the police had been advised of his disappearance they went to the apartment where Renzo had lived with his mother, who is divorced from the Commendatore.

Searching the apartment the police were almost overcome by unpleasant odors and they eventually discovered the body of Madame Pettine locked in a box, in advanced stages of decomposition. The body was removed for an autopsy which showed that Madame Pettine died from revolver wounds, and it was indicated that she had died about February 12.

Further investigation by the police disclosed that Renzo, after his mother disappeared in February, had explained to her friends and to his father that she was taking a holiday out of Milan.

Meanwhile the police have learned that Renzo had cashed his mother's alimony checks and had entertained girls rather lavishly in the apartment where his mother's body was locked in a box.

No traces of Renzo have been found.

Watchers Cast Third of Vote

Washington, June 10.—One out of every three votes cast in Allegheny county (Pittsburgh), the Mellon-Pepper stronghold in the Pennsylvania primary, was cast by a paid watcher employed by one or the other of the senatorial candidates, Charles C. McGovern, western manager for Governor Pinchot, a defeated candidate, testified today in the Senate's investigation of huge campaign expenditures.

The vote cast in the Pittsburgh area was approximately 150,000, he said, and the paid watchers on the payroll totaled nearly 50,000.

"Do you mean that the employment of these watchers was one way of buying their votes?" asked Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, of Missouri.

"In a large measure, yes," replied McGovern.

BARON STEVENSON DIES AT LONDON

London, June 10.—Baron James Stevenson, author of the British rubber restriction scheme, died at 3:15 this morning of heart disease. Stevenson was managing director of John Walker & Sons, Ltd., distillers.

Baron Stevenson as chairman of the Rubber Investigation Committee drafted and was chiefly instrumental in formulating the plan which, it is charged, created a British rubber monopoly.

In 1921 he was appointed personal commercial adviser to the secretary of state for the colonies.

During the war Stevenson served brilliantly in various capacities, starting his work in 1915 as director of an organization in the munitions ministry. Stevenson was fifty-three years old.

BANDIT KILLED WITH HIS OWN GUN

New York, June 10.—A bandit was killed with his own gun in Brooklyn today.

The bandit, with two companions, held up Samuel Laria, thirty, a chauffeur, in the hallway of his own home as he returned from work. Laria hit the gun hand of the bandit, killed the pistol and then him dead. Before he had done this, however, the other two bandits had taken from Laria $28 in cash, a diamond pin and a watch.

Biggest and Best Farm Bureau Picnic Planned

Farm and Home Bureau, Chamber of Commerce Picnic at Forsyth Park August 18 Will Offer Many Surprises, According to Advance Dope.

Now that the world's wildest, woolliest and most gigantic ring circus has come and gone, undivided attention is called to the announcement that the world's largest, liveliest and leading Farm and Home Bureau, Chamber of Commerce annual picnic will be held on August 18, in Kingston city's most beautiful and spacious picnic headquarters, Forsyth Park. At a meeting held long before the frost was out of the mountains, a general committee of Farm and Home Bureau and Chamber of Commerce members was appointed to shovel the snow out of the park and get things generally stirred up for the greatest event of now famous county-wide holidays. County-wide holiday is right! Every up and coming farmer in the county will have his farm work well in hand by August 18, and for this day will call a halt on work and a hurrah for the picnic. Likewise every up and coming city business will hand out their "skin." "Closed for the Picnic." It is the day when everyone celebrates.

To make each year's celebration more successful than the past is the gigantic task which the committee face each summer, but they never fail to come through. And this year will be no exception. Already they have several stunts in mind that will be headliners. Last year it will be recalled that the crack horseshoe pitching team from Marlborough came here with a stack of "rings" a mile high and subdued for evermore their nearest rivals, the Kingston Chamber of Commerce team. (Rumor has it that certain members of certain horseshoe pitching teams where horse shoes are pitched and have spent all winter in Florida, rings are rung from morning till night. Rumor goes further to say that lessons have been taken from the world's champion pitcher, "Putt Mossman," who claims his proteges always win.) Beware Marlborough.

Who has forgotten that Grange tug-of-war contest won by the Huguenot Grange of New Paltz? And who will forget the hair-raising riding stunts staged by Captain Fox's team of crack State Troopers? And did the kids enjoy Wonderly's wonderful games, and "St. David's" hot dogs, and "Hal" Eppes's punch, John Bosty's real cow's milk, and more and more and more? Check your calendar for August 18, the day of the annual Farm and Home Bureau, Kingston Chamber of Commerce picnic at Forsyth Park.

For further information ask any one of the following committee: General chairman in charge of "The Matter on the Whole," "Hal" Eppes from Accord; general committee for Home Bureau, Mrs. W. A. Warren, Mrs. Fred DuBois, Mrs. H. M. Eppes, Mrs. A. E. P. Searing, Miss Mary DeWitt, for Chamber of Commerce, Max L. Rehen, W. A. Van Valkenburgh, Sam Bernstein, Jr., C. E. Wonderly, L. S. Coe; for Farm Bureau, E. W. Hathaway, C. C. DuMond, Robert J. Harder, Guy Davenport, Millard Davis.

The committees are open for suggestions and recommendations for making this year's picnic eclipse all previous affairs.

CHALLENGE FOUR INDIVIDUALS TO DUELS

Warsaw, June 10.—Former Premier of Poland Count Skrzyński, whose duel with General Count Settycki scheduled for yesterday morning was cancelled, today challenged four individuals to duels. Those challenged include his own seconds and the seconds of General Settycki.

The former premier asserted that he was insulted by the cancellation of the duel which implied that he had sought to dodge the engagement. The seconds of his opponent announced yesterday that the duel was off inasmuch as Skrzyński had allowed twenty-four hours to elapse between the time of receiving the insult and the actual challenge.

General Settycki was challenged to a duel this morning by General Dreiser, one of Marshal Pilsudski's aides.

It was announced today by John A. Heydler, president of the National League, that McKenchie was suspended for his part in the fight with Kinn.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 10, 1926.

Reports indicate that the two great parties in the three great states of New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois are split on prohibition, which seems to be the only issue of absorbing interest at present in the commonwealths boasting the three largest cities of America.

Though it is an age of relatively trivial enthusiasms, Henry Ford's decision to rebuild the school house where Mary was followed by her little lamb does not arouse the interest shown in his purchase and renewal of Longfellow's Wayside Inn.

IRRIGATION DIFFICULTIES.

The hanging in effigy of Secretary Wood and Reclamation Director Mead has called the attention of a startled public to a curious situation. The hanging in effigy was done by water-takers from the government's irrigation works in Nebraska because their water was cut off, and their water was cut off because they "would not pay their arrears of charges or give their notes therefor," claiming that the secretary promised them an extension and did not keep his promise. On the other hand, it is stated that the Interior Department has been trying in vain for several years to induce the farmers to pay up or give their notes for the arrears. According to the accounts the farmers have refused to do either in the hope that Congress would finally come to their relief, wipe out the debts, and make the water free. Such is the situation facing the government after being induced by western politicians to spend $27,000,000 on irrigation.

The city man pays his gas bill, or his gas is cut off. So the water-takers from a private irrigation company would pay their bills or accept the inevitable consequences. But the Nebraska farmers are said to be of the opinion that government water should be as free as government land formerly was, and resent every effort of the government to get its money. The fundamental difficulty seems to be traceable to the widespread impression that the government can afford to make costly improvements without charge and that the people generally can be rightfully taxed to that end.

ENFORCEMENT CORRUPTION.

Discussing the trials and temptations of prohibition enforcement agents in an article in the New York Outlook, Ernest W. Mandeville devotes much space to an interview with Charles L. Carlsake, who served the government three years as an enforcement agent and declares that he could easily have become a rich man during that time by accepting bribes. To do so, he says, "is the usual thing," for, though there are "some" incorruptible agents, "in the main they are in the service to get as much out of it as they can." It being easy for the agent not only "to make a great deal of money" but to "cover up his profits." An agent who is feared by the bootleggers "can obtain from them as much money in two weeks as he would draw from the government in a year." After he had made a reputation for "spotting booze trucks" Mr. Carlsake was offered $1,000 a week not to interfere with the business, and at the same time the bootleggers "guaranteed to furnish me two trucks a week which I could set as to as to keep my record clean with the Federal authorities." Others offered him "a jump sum of $10,000 to let their trucks ride."

Mr. Carlsake charges corruption also in the government service itself. "If you tread on the toes of men higher up, you are immediately called off," he says, and adds: "Whenever I would get particularly active in knocking off a few of the 50 or 60 beer trucks that pass over a certain road each night I would get a telegram ordering me to come out of the state." Much of his time was spent in chasing such orders obviously intended to keep him "out of the way." He charges that there is often a transfer of all the records in order that they may be "kept out of the way for some large movement of liquor." More significant than these are the official conversations in the indifference of the public. "The people don't back us up," complains this disillusioned enforcement agent. Why don't they? In the answer to this question is to be found the chief explanation of the startling conditions.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Borton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

OUR OBSERVING PHYSICIANS.

Reading one of Conan Doyle's stories about Sherlock Holmes, his great hero detective, you have been struck with his powers of reasoning or deduction as it is called.

Doyle was asked where he got the original idea. He stated that his professor in medicine at college used it to a remarkable degree. He cites the case of a farmer coming into the clinic one day, and the professor asking him how everything was going along in the village of M—.

The farmer was astounded as M— was some ten miles away, and he had passed through three other villages on his way to the hospital.

But the explanation was simple. The road out from M— was composed of a reddish clay, some of which was still adhering to the farmer's boots.

Years ago doctors who lived in malaria districts believed that malaria was due to dampness and night air, therefore, the way to cure malaria was to live on high ground or stay indoors at night. This really cured and prevented malaria.

But the real cause of malaria, as you know, is the mosquito, who was "bred by the dampness, and who became active and hungry at night."

Thus those research men who discovered the cause of malaria used the two points, dampness and night air, as a foundation on which to work. When Banting went to work to endeavor to obtain a cure for diabetes he was in possession of all the work that had been done by previous investigators. They had learned that the blood needed a certain element in order to take in sufficient sugar for the needs of the body. These men worked upon the pancreas but were not successful in their search. By painstaking effort and self denial, Banting went on to success and has received the acclamation he so richly deserves.

But Banting tells us that by building on the observations made by earlier research men he got the idea, that if he could secure from an animal the secretion that the pancreas should be giving to the blood, he could overcome the symptoms of diabetes thereby. And he was successful in his efforts.

A doctor in Havana, Cuba, tried for many years to tell his brethren that the mosquito caused yellow fever. This was proven experimentally by United States physicians later, and yellow fever is now almost unknown throughout the world.

My point is simply that we owe our progress in medicine, or in health preservation, to patient observing physicians.

HOW

WORK OF REJUVENATION OF STATUARY PROCEEDS.

Do you know that statuary suffers from age and has to be rejuvenated by beauty doctors just the same as human faces and figures? It does, and reports which have just come to hand concerning the accomplishments of Thomas H. Bleakney, technician to the Pennsylvania museum in Philadelphia, indicate that he is filling the role of beauty doctor to wood, marble and plaster statues with results that rival some of the marvels wrought by beauty parlors. Under his deft touches, aged carvings shake off their senility and bloom again in the pristine beauty of their better days.

Old age works its ravages on art objects through chemical changes and bacteria which mar the "complexion" and leave cracks and wounds to fill with dirt. Under Bleakney's direction, these inanimate faces are treated for their looks by means of soap and water aseptic solutions and healing salves. Often the statue doctor's work resembles that of a surgeon, for wounds are cut into, cauterizations of diseased parts are made and even amputations are sometimes performed. Thymol, formalin, peroxide of hydrogen and ammonia are used sometimes.

How British Short-Tail Sheep Reached Island

Sheep Reached Island

The short-tailed sheep appears to have been the only European sheep at the period when the island of Great Britain was joined up to the continent of Europe. If the temple of Tarxien is to be dated 10000 B. C., then there has been ample time for the short-tailed sheep there to have been contaminated with the long-tailed sheep, which got its tail (carrying fat) at the same time that the camel got its humps, following upon the drying up of Asia and the formation of the Gobi desert.

If, on the other hand, Professor Zammit is right and the temple at Tarxien may only be dated 2000 to 4000 B. C., then the change has come about more rapidly. Then the even more interesting question arises as to which track across to our island the long-tailed sheep took. We have noted it in Egypt and in Rome. But did it come to Britain from southern Europe by way of the Mediterranean, or across country and finally through the kingdom of Scandinavia?—London Graphic.

How Fluke Made Fortune

The rough bath towel that brings a healthy glow to the skin was an accidental invention. A manufacturer of fine, smooth toweling had trouble with his machinery. Instead of the finely woven material coming through as usual, the threads were loose and tangled and, from his point of view, quite unfit for sale.

He set to work to adjust matters and, after much trouble, got the machine working smoothly. But in the course of his work his hands became coated with oil and grime, and he used a length of the faulty and apparently useless fabric to wipe off the grease. He was quick to note that the rough discarded stuff did the work much better than ordinary toweling and, being always on the alert for a new idea, he added rough towels to his stock. The new stuff became popular, and the fluffy towels soon became his chief output and made him a wealthy man.

How Patents Are Procured

New and original ornamental designs for articles of manufacture can be patented. Ornamental character, or beauty, is requisite to patentability. Mere utility is not taken into consideration, and it is questionable whether an article to which ornamentation would give no value is subject matter of a design patent. A design is not patentable if it was known or used by others in this country before invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or if it was patented or described in any printed publication in this or any foreign country before his invention thereof or more than two years prior to his application, or was in public use or on sale in this country for more than two years prior to his application.

How Air Is Tested

Air is tested for carbon monoxide by means of the hemicat. The hemicat is prepared by mixing fuming sulphuric acid and iodine pentoxide, using granular pumice stone as a supporting material. A sample of the air to be tested for carbon monoxide is drawn into a small glass bulb, then forced through a small glass tube filled with chemicals upon which the carbon monoxide has the effect of changing the original color from gray or white to shades of green, the deeper the green denoting the percentage of carbon monoxide in the air.

How Quinine Was Named

Quinine or quina, much used in medicine, was discovered in 1639 by Pelletier and Caventou, who obtained it from cinchona bark. The medicinal use of the bark, found in South America, was known to the Jesuits as early as 1638. It was used to cure of fever the wife of the Spanish viceroy of Peru whose name was Chinchona, and his name was given to the bark.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

Congress Determines on Invasion of Canada After Gage's Proclamation of June 10, 1775.

There was a decided war spirit visible in the second Continental Congress, which assembled in Philadelphia, May 10, 1775, yet it was cautious and prudent.

On the very day that Congress organized Captain Ethan Allen and his "Green Mountain Boys" surprised the British garrison at Fort Ticonderoga. Immediately after this exploit became known Congress was urged to authorize the invasion and seizure of Canada.

In June, 1774, the Quebec Act passed by the British Parliament went into operation. This act extended the bounds of the province from Labrador to the Mississippi and from the Ohio to the watershed of Hudson Bay.

But the members of Congress hoped to gain even a greater victory by making the Canadians their friends and allies. To this end they sent an address to them, prepared by John Jay. It appealed to their pride, their affection for France, their courage, and the regard for their common welfare.

Congress resolved, June 1, 1775, "that no expedition or incursion ought to be undertaken or made by any colony or body of colonists against or into Canada." The Provincial Congress of New York had already expressly disclaimed any intention to make war on Canada.

The "Canadians," as Frenchmen, feared the haughty rule of the British, and the Protestant portion of them cherished the exclusive rule of Protestants; but as Congress offered them no hope of a union for independence, or a promise of institutions of their own, nor any adequate motive for rising, they were unmoved by address.

Just at this moment, June 10, 1775, came the proclamation of General Thomas Gage, the commander-in-chief of the British forces in America, that all Americans in arms were rebels and traitors, but promised pardon to all on submission, excepting Samuel Adams and John Hancock. Then very soon came the news of the battle on Bunker's Hill, and these happenings made a radical change in the feelings of the people and in Congress.

It was also ascertained that Guy Carleton, governor of Canada, had received a commission to muster and arm the people of the province, and to march them into any province in America to arrest and put to death "rebels" and other offenders. Here was a menace that could not go unheeded. Congress at length prepared an invasion of Canada.

Major General Philip Schuyler, of New York, had been appointed to the command of the Northern Department, which included the whole province of New York. General Richard Montgomery, also of New York, was his chief lieutenant. The regiments raised by the province of New York were put in motion, and General Wooster, with Connecticut troops, who were stationed at Harlem, was ordered to Albany.

It was now too late. Had Congress ordered the conquest in May it would have been easy, but near the close of August, when Schuyler was ready to move his expedition, preparations had been made to thwart it.

Schuyler, captured Fort Chamby, and Montreal fell before the patriots on November 13; Montgomery pushed on toward Quebec, and with the forces under Arnold, at the close of the year 1775, in an attempt to take the city by storm, the invaders were repulsed, and the brave Montgomery was killed.

A month later a large armament, land and naval, approached Quebec, and General Thomas retreated up the river. Driven from one post to another, the Americans were finally expelled from Canada, the wretched remnant of the army, reduced by disease, arrived at Crown Point in June, 1776, and the invasion of Canada during the Revolutionary War was only an historic event of that great struggle.

A Gay Lacquered Piece for that Awkward Corner

It is strange how difficult the corners of some rooms are. No matter what you do to make them pleasing they remain the one discordant note in an otherwise delightful room. Oftentimes a bit of color will work wonders—a lacquered piece, for instance, such as a pier bookcase, a magazine holder or a hanging wall rack. Our lacquered pieces are worth considering from this angle.

MANY ACTIVITIES AT COMFORTER CHURCH.

At the Reformed Church of the Comforter church hall a three act farce "Go Slow Mary," will be presented Friday night by the Young People's Society of Trinity Lutheran Church. It will be given under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. Society and will begin at 8 o'clock. Ice cream and cake will be served after the play. The public is invited.

The young men of John Schryver's Sunday school class have been busy the past two weeks grading the ground around the church hall and making a fine parking place for automobiles. When completed it will be a great improvement to the beauty of the property.

Next Sunday will be celebrated as Children's Day both morning and evening. At the morning service quite a number of children will be presented by their parents for baptism and the pastor will preach an appropriate sermon for the day. In the evening in the church hall at 7:15 the Sunday school will give a fine program of recitations and songs and pins will be presented to the children of the Church Attendance League and diplomas to those who graduate from the Gracie Department. Everyone is anticipating a very joyous time at the services. Sunday All members of the congregation and friends are urged to attend these services.

Parents who desire to have their children baptized at the morning service next Sunday should call up the pastor on the telephone as soon as possible. The telephone number is 1994.

The recent drama "The Challenge of the Cross" given by a few of the young ladies of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church last Sunday evening in the church hall, made a lasting and deep impression upon the large congregation present. Nearly every seat was occupied. Bravely portrayed very convincingly the meaning of the challenge of the cross and the other parts were all well taken. Albert Shukits conducted the opening service in an impressive and inspirational manner. After the service the pastor spoke for about ten minutes on what he thought the challenge of the cross meant. It was a challenge to self-sacrifice, to service, to happiness and to follow Christ.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER
ROOSTER'S ESCAPE

"Cackle, cackle," said Mrs. Hen. "Now what's the matter?" asked Red Top, in a very cross tone. "You're always grumbling about something, Mrs. Hen. Why can't you rest, and be quiet, and stay where you were in the hen house?" "Cackle!" said Mrs. Hen. "Get out of the way!" Mrs. Hen went on saying, excitedly. "Don't you see that automobile coming?" "Oh, where—where?" asked Red Top, who was quite frightened now. But he did not have to ask "where" a third time.

There was the automobile dashing around the corner and almost upon him. "Dear me," he said, "to which side shall I run?" "I'm right—right in the middle of the road!"

"Cackle, cackle!" came from Mrs. Hen. "Come this side. Come where I am."

"No, cackle, cackle, you will reach this side more quickly. Come this side," said Mrs. White Hen.

Now Red Top had gone to the side of the road where Mrs. Hen was waiting for him when Mrs. White Hen had called to him from the other side.

And back again he went across the road.

The big people in the automobile had thought, of course, that Red Top was quite safe on the side with Mrs. Hen, when he had suddenly turned around and rushed across again for all he was worth.

"Oh, help, help," shouted Red Top. "I'm being killed! A cruel automobile is running me down."

But no, the automobile had been stopped just in time. And there it waited until Red Top made up his mind to really go to one side and get out of its way.

But he had lost several of his beautiful feathers in hurrying and Mrs. Hen began to scold.

"It's a wonder," she said, "that you weren't killed. Then, who would have crowed and made every one get up in the morning?"

"You say you are the best crower—then why don't you try to look after yourself?"

"Nonsense," said Red Top, who had recovered from his scare. "I guess I know what I'm about."

"If I was a little undecided which side of the road I wanted to be on—well, that's my own affair."

"And, too, didn't I make that automobile stop?"

"That's the way to treat them. The trouble with most roosters is that they're afraid of automobiles. They flatter them and rush out of their way."

"As for me—I get them puzzled to know just where and when I'm going. I was in existence, or rather my family was, long, long, long years before automobiles were."

"It is time some of these modern things were shown that they are not the whole show."

"I taught a few lessons that time."

But Red Top trembled a little as he heard the sound of an automobile horn in the distance, and all the others knew that though he was crowing now he was pretty much afraid of automobiles and of people who were in such a hurry that they wouldn't stop to consider the life of a poor rooster or hen.

Oh, no, they knew he was not so free of fear as he was pretending to be, and as every once in a while he boasted of being.

They knew, too, that he knew how inconsiderate people often were and how people felt that each and every road belonged to them and that any thing that got in the way or went upon the road did so at their own risk.

The roads didn't like to have people feel that way about them, but what were the roads to do about it, down-trodden as they were?

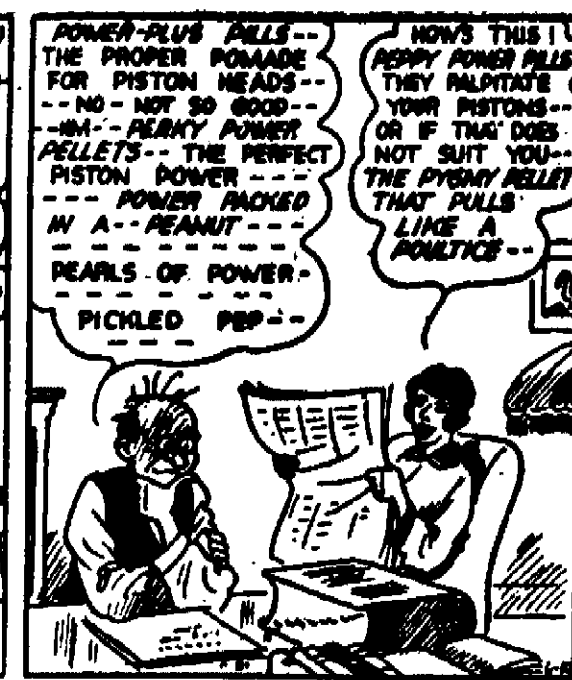

And the roosters and the hens? They must take care so that automobile owners could go dashing thoughtlessly through the country.

WHEN YANK SAILORS WIPED OUT PIRATES

Little Brush That Goes Back to Year 1870.

The Asiatic squadron whipped Korean pirates in a battle in 1870. Those were the days of steam and sail, and the Colorado, a wooden frigate, was the flagship of the squadron. She was a full-rigged ship. The sailor boys of that day sang their chateaux like the lads on the Britishers. Tales of piracy and worse, on the part of the Koreans had reached Washington, and the Asiatic squadron was ordered there to put them out of business. Under Admiral Rodgers the squadron went to Korea and laid siege to Seoul.

The pirates had four forts and the Americans stormed them. The Colorado had 38 nine-inch guns on her gun deck, and eight similar guns on her spar-deck. They were all smooth bore, for the Americans had no rifles at that time.

The Americans didn't use these guns in the fight. They took three-inch howitzers ashore in small boats, and the marines and the bluejackets were armed with Springfield rifles. Those Koreans had never heard of American sailors and devil-dogs, and had the nerve to come out and fight them hand to hand, after the Americans had smashed down the walls of the Korean forts with their howitzers.

The Americans were in fighting mood, filled with the stories of the Korean murders of shipwrecked Americans; and the Americans felt the Koreans with their big guns—they thought they were big—while they were rowing ashore. Down went those forts one after another, and the Americans killed a lot of Koreans with their howitzers. There were heaps of dead bodies behind the walls. The Korean soldiers wore white suits and long white hats. The Americans didn't know it, but the Korean uniforms were bullet-proof and knife-proof, too, but not bayonet-proof, which they soon found out. The suits consisted of layers and layers of linen cloth wrapped around their bodies.

The story of the fight is told by James Folger of New York City, to Joseph S. Jordan, in the New York Evening World. Folger was a marine on the Colorado.

Horse Latitudes
This is an old seaman's term of doubtful origin. "Horse latitude" is the name applied to a region in the Atlantic ocean between 30 and 35 degrees north latitude. It is noted for its calm and baffling winds. In the days of sailing craft many difficulties were encountered in the horse latitudes. One writer describes this ocean belt as follows: "Gales and dead calms, terrible thunderstorms and breezes, fair one hour and foul the next, are the characteristics of these parallels." According to one theory, which is accepted by some authorities and rejected by others, the region received its name from the fact that in colonial times vessels carrying horses from Europe and New England to the West Indies were sometimes obliged, when detained there, to throw part of the cargo overboard.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Prophets Were All Wrong
All bunk about climatic cycles, says the weather bureau. And it points to the flood of predictions last summer and fall that this winter would be very cold and severe. It has really been a little warmer than normal. Records of the last forty or fifty years show no radical difference. Our weather is made on the sun. What difference there is from year to year is probably due to the great storms which sweep the sun. They bear each other like the atmosphere of flaming gases that a handful of planets the size of the earth could be dropped in without touching the sides of the hole and would perhaps not raise an additional blower on Old Sol.—Chicago's Weekly.

Notebooks in Pockets Have Banished String

The man who tied a string around a finger to remind him of errands to be done for his wife has forever departed. The string has been banished by the notebook so effectively that it is ten men were challenged to account for their good memories nine would confess that he made memoranda of his errands on the back of a letter.

Even the farmer no longer drives to town with his finger tied around with a string. He may not have the businesslike notebook, but somewhere in a pocket there is a letter he intends to answer some time, or a bill of sale, or a notice from the road overseer, and on the back of one of these he writes down the errands he is to do for his wife. There hasn't been a string jogger of memory in his generation.

"In the old days," explains an elderly man, "there were few pockets, no convenient scraps of paper and not always pen and ink or a pencil. But always in one of these pockets was a bit of string. The men of my days grew up with string in their pockets. People carry pencils nowadays instead."

Big "Scoop" Credited to Virginia Gazette

The Virginia Gazette is said to have been the first newspaper "born" south of the Potomac river. It was also the first paper to publish the Declaration of Independence. The Gazette was established by a man named Parks at Williamsburg in 1766. It has recently been revived by the William Parks School of Journalism of William and Mary college. As established by Parks the Gazette was a single sheet, 12 by 6 inches, and was sold for 10 shillings a year. The first issue of the new series is in tabloid form and contains 12 pages. According to the first issue of this series, which was prepared by William and Mary students, one of the earliest numbers of the Gazette "scooped the world" on the Declaration of Independence. During the Revolutionary war three papers bearing the name Gazette were published in Williamsburg. One was edited and published by a woman, Mrs. Clementine Rind. She successfully conducted her paper for two years. She is given the credit of being the first woman in the United States to edit and publish a paper.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Duchesse de Richelieu

THE Duchesse de Richelieu, formerly Elinor Wigg of Baltimore, bears one of the greatest names in French history. Her husband is a descendant of the same famous family that gave to France the great Cardinal of Louis XIII's reign; the Marshal of France under Louis XV; and the soldier statesman, Duc de Richelieu, prime minister of Louis XVIII.

The charming Duchesse de Richelieu, a homely of distinction, has for years especially favored Clicquot Club Ginger Ale. When first introduced to the new Pale Dry Clicquot, she said:

"The delicate flavor of Clicquot Pale Dry Ginger Ale particularly appeals to me; it is subtle, so. Always I have preferred Clicquot Club to other ginger ales, and now in the new Pale Dry Clicquot I have found another favorite, a most delicious drink to serve at my table and to my guests."

Two flavors to choose from
The delicate, elusive flavor of the new Pale Dry Clicquot has brought it into instant favor. The famous Golden Clicquot is a particularly interesting, piquant drink, the most popular of all bottled beverages the nation over. Choose to suit your individual taste; both are equally pure, equally generous in size, and equally reasonable in price. The Clicquot Club Company, 5115, Massachusetts.

Dairy Farmers to Meet in Buffalo

Expect 4,000 at Dairyman's League Annual Meeting—Developments in Industry Arouse Interest Pool Prices at New Record.

At a moment when public interest in the milk business is the greatest in the history of the industry, dairy farmers of the New York milk shed will meet in Buffalo, Thursday, June 17, for the fifth annual meeting of the world's largest dairyman's co-operative marketing organization, the Dairyman's League Co-operative Association, Inc.

Predictions that attendance at this meeting will tax the capacity of Elmwood Music Hall, which seats 4,000, is based by Dairyman's League officials on the fact that interest of its members has been raised to fever heat by events of recent months. Outstanding features of these developments, which have arrested attention of producers and consumers too, are:

1—Threatened invasion of the New York city fluid milk and cream market by western milk produced under conditions which gave it an advantage over eastern farmers producing under strict regulations.

2—Launching of a movement in Northern New York, which has spread throughout the territory, to bring all dairymen together in one "united dairyman's cooperative" organization to abolish factional strife in marketing and improve conditions for producers and consumers alike.

3—Revelations of graft in New York city in connection with importation of bottled milk and cream from unapproved sources, and adulteration with water of pure, high-testing milk.

No Graft Charges Against League.

Throughout all of these events the Dairyman's League Co-operative Association, Inc., has held the line—light to a greater or less extent. While the League has at no time been connected with the graft probe, it was mentioned in the presentment handed up by the Queens county grand jury investigating alleged monopoly, which recommended repeal of the law under which co-operatives operate and extension of the New York milk shed.

These matters will all receive the attention of speakers at the Buffalo meeting. Members will receive reports of the greatest year in the history of their association. Marking the end of the five year period upon which achievements of such organizations are figured, the annual report shows an increase in the percentage of their milk turned into the desirable fluid markets. This report will show, enabled discontinue of manufacturing operations, except for the making of cheese and a small quantity of condensed milk. Marked improvement in efficiency of the association with these accomplishments has brought a higher pool price to members. The average net pool price for 1925 was $2.122 per 100 pounds of three per cent milk, which was about 18 cents per 100 above the five year average, and more than 30 cents higher than the previous year's average.

Financial strength of the association was increased during the year by continuation of its policy of buying back from members certificates of indebtedness due in 1927 and 1928. This has reduced maturities ahead of time to the profit of all members.

Will Urge Greater Unity.

G. W. Slocum, president of the association, in his address to the members, will emphasize the responsibilities of members not only to their association but also to the public they serve. He will urge greater unity among producers of the New York milk shed as a means of solving the industry's marketing problems, and to raise quality standards. Judge J. D. Miller, vice president of the association, will deliver the principal address of the day. He will discuss the general dairy situation of the territory. In this respect he will describe the work of the Committee of Eleven, which was created by farmers to evolve a plan to build one "united dairyman's co-operative" organization. The New York city milk investigations will be sketched by Judge Miller, and the work of the league in legislative matters at Albany and Washington for the benefit of producers will be outlined.

The annual meeting of the Dairyman's League is a strictly business session, and the 1,600 accredited delegates will devote all of their time of its business, but for western New York farmers generally it will be a gala event marking the first such meeting to be held west of Utica.

Tropical Fruit

The guava grows in tropical America, Mexico and the West Indies, and as there are over 100 species, the fruit varies considerably as to color and shape. Propagation is usually by seed, but some vegetative method is generally used to perpetuate desirable varieties, as the plants do not run true to seed. As a food it is used with raw cream and sugar, and also made into shortcakes and pies, but its most common use is for jam, jelly, cheese and strap.

The TALE of KIDDIE KATYDID

by Arthur Scott Bailey

SHORT-HORNS ARRIVE

IN AT least one respect, the short-horned messenger had told the truth about the coming of guests. Before twenty-four hours had gone by, the fellow returned to Farmer Green's dooryard; and with him came a great, fat person who belonged without question to the Locust family.

Nobody could call his horns long. Nor could anyone call them medium. They were short, and no one in his right mind would deny it.

"Where's that fellow you call Leaper?" the messenger asked Chipry Cricket. "Here's his cousin! And the rest of the family will be dropping down here in just a few minutes."

Chipry Cricket replied that he hadn't seen Leaper the Locust since the night before.

"That's strange," the messenger remarked, turning to his fat companion from his tree-top, was gladder than ever that he had escaped this terrible trouble that had come to Leaper the Locust.

Soon a patter, patter, patter made itself heard among the leaves.

"My goodness! Can that be rain?" Freddie Firefly exclaimed. "The moon is shining. And I don't see a cloud in the sky."

Even as he spoke the strange sound grew louder.

"Can it be hailing?" Freddie asked Kiddie Katydid anxiously.

"Oh, no!" Kiddie told him. "What you hear is nothing but Leaper the Locust's cousin's family. They're just beginning to arrive."

Freddie Firefly could scarcely believe his own ears.

"Why, there must be dozens of them!" he cried.

"More than that!" Kiddie Katydid replied.

"Hundreds, then?"

"Still more," Kiddie Katydid said.

"Well, thousands, then!" cried Freddie Firefly. "You don't mean to say there are more of 'em than that?"

"There are tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands," Kiddie Katydid declared solemnly. "They'll eat everything they can find. And we shall be lucky if they leave enough for the rest of us to live on, after they pass on."

"How did you learn all this?" Freddie Firefly wanted to know.

"That's another of my secrets," said Kiddie Katydid.

So Freddie Firefly went off to hunt for Leaper the Locust. He knew now why Leaper had struggled to escape from that mysterious messenger with the curious message. And Freddie intended to ask Leaper a good many questions about his cousins.

But he couldn't find Leaper anywhere. He searched for him high and low, and far and wide. But nobody knew where Leaper was.

"There are lots of Short-horns everywhere tonight," Benjamin Bat told him. "Claim any one of them is just as good as another." And Benjamin grinned horribly.

Freddie Firefly shuddered. It seemed to him that he had never passed such a dreadful night before.

But Benjamin Bat was having the time of his life. He said that he hoped the Short-horns would like Pleasant Valley so well that they would decide to stay right here for the rest of their days. But, strange to say, Benjamin made things as unpleasant as possible for the newcomers. He ate as many of them as he could, remarking that from such a horde a few would scarcely be missed.

(By Grosser & Dunlap.)

And Benjamin Grinned Horribly.

"He was to be here to welcome you."

"Ah! I see him now! He's right here in this tree!" exclaimed the fat one. And he half-jumped, half-flew into Kiddie Katydid's favorite tree.

"You're wrong!" said Kiddie Katydid. "I'm a Long-horn—and you can't claim to be a cousin of mine."

"My mistake! My mistake!" said the fat gentleman hastily. And he left even more suddenly than he had come.

"I hope your friend Leaper hasn't given us the slip," he remarked to the messenger as he joined him again.

"Never fear! If he fails us we'll find him and punish him as he deserves," said the messenger with a savage frown.

And Kiddie Katydid, looking down

at Benjamin Bat, said to himself:

"That's another of my secrets."

"That's another of my secrets," said Kiddie Katydid.

"That's another of my secrets," said Kiddie Katydid.

The Hotel Stenographer

by Joseph Kaye

AT TWENTY-ONE my position in life was indeterminate and fluctuating, for at twenty-one a year is a long time.

"I worked in a lake boat, wrote more or less poetry, learned to set type in a country newspaper office, nailed boxes together in a factory and for a month occupied the proud, if brief, position of a floor-walker in a world-famous department store."

"My ambitions at that time, however, were the same that they are now, viz. to write good stories. They are as far from realization now as then, or perhaps farther.—H. Bedford Jones."

TODAY.—Mr. Jones is too modest. Magazine readers owe on him, and for all the aristocratic fore part of his name, he can dash off a real thriller.

(By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"KELLY," asked the hotel stenographer, "have you had your tonsils taken out?"

"Who?" said the house detective.

"Your tonsils," repeated the girl.

"They are a couple of lima beans in your neck that get fretful every time you have a cold."

"Not me," laughed the house detective. "I'm all here."

"Well, I'm not," said the girl. "I had my tonsils out when I was a little girl and I am wondering if I wouldn't have been a wonderful singer if I hadn't."

"All my people sing, Kelly. My mother croons an Irish lullaby that would put you to sleep with the trap drummer of a jazz orchestra practicing his stuff in the next room. If you could hear my dad lean hard against 'Wearing of the Green,' you would be willing to stand by the Irish flag no matter if you were in a country where every tree was an orange tree."

"But I can't! I am consoled by the fact that most people I know who can sing, insist on doing it. No one would mind people being able to sing if they just wouldn't."

"So much good dancing time is wasted while people sing. At an entertainment and dance the entertainment isn't and the dance is delayed. If they would just can the singers on the dance program it would shorten it and everybody could dance quicker."

"Still, Kelly, it is rare indeed you see a singer who is at the same time a leaker. It is only fair when a girl is homesy and can sing or think she can that she be given a chance to strut her stuff before the good leakers get hold of the fellows at the dance, even though I never knew a girl landing a job by singing to him. There is something sort of distant sympathy about singing that keeps a fellow at arm's length and you never get anywhere that way. I'll tell the waiting world."

Costs of Many Colors, Especially Plaided Colors, Are Smart for Sports Wear.

The sports coat has become a specialized type. No longer can one make the same model serve for every and any occasion. The casual, throw-on coat for motoring is therefore a thing to cultivate as such. Loose, belted lines probably fashion the latest sporting silhouette, although the belt is by no means a necessity. England, rather than France, is our criterion in the realm of really smart sports clothes, and thus we find that the smartest coats are made decidedly in the running this year. Ombré plaids, and slightly modernistic plaids, however, are better than the old stand-bys, and in the new color combinations is often found the key to their chic.

There is a bright, almost garish, yellow which is particularly smart for the sports coat—usually combined with black and dark brown in a medium-patterned plaid. Reds and browns are new, while in the range of lighter colors, we have dull blues, greens and gray and brown combinations.

A touch of leather is seen on many of the best-looking coats, either as the whole lining, or as a facing to the lapels, pockets, and belt.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A "Smart" Style for a School Dress. 4939.—Plaid woolen was chosen for this model, with binding and facings of wool crepe in a matched shade. Pockets are inserted at the cross slashes in the front.

The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 2 1/2 yards of one material 36 inches wide. If made as illustrated, 1/4 yard of contrasting material will be required for collar, revers facings and vestee.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and Summer 1926 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

SUPERB HATS FOR MATRONS
DISSEMBLE THEIR ARTISTRY

MUCH too numerous for the past few years, are those pathetic figures—the elderly women who emulate flappers in their dress and conduct. They fail to perceive and emphasize the charms that belong to maturity—and publish this failure to everybody, when they wear clothes and affect ways that only belong to youth. Meantime, stylists turn out the most fascinating of clothes for the old or woman—clothes that bespeak her poise and the richness of her experience—and fashion frowns darkly upon the stupidity that passes them up and picks out things that were meant to express youth.

Here is a group of tailored hats and turbans suited to matronly wearers. It includes spirited and becoming shapes and reveals intricate designing and faultless workmanship in hats that, at first glance, would impress one as simple. That is one of their charms. But the simplicity is only seeming—it is like the manners of ladies in the great world which seem so unstudied and spontaneous, but are the result of generations of training and good breeding—and are altogether charming. These examples of headwear suited to older women are specimens of fine artistry in the milliner's art. They are intended for informal wear, with tailored or other dresses of similar character. Combinations of crepe or satin with straw, all-satin, or intricately made ribbon hats, contribute great numbers of hats of this kind to the modes.

For dressier wear there are many dignified, high-crowned models in soft straw or in hair braids trimmed with masses of flowers in rich colors, or intricate ornaments made of ribbon or other millinery materials. In nearly all cases these are applied flat against the shape. Lines are so important that trimmings must not interfere with the silhouette of the hat.

How to make
Strawberry Jam
keep the color and flavor of the fresh berries

Your jam will taste enough like fresh berries to use in strawberry shortcake if you make it this new, easy, short-boil way with Certo. Save the following recipe to use for your first batch of strawberry jam.

Cut in halves lengthwise with stainless knife about 2 quarts of small or medium-sized fully ripe berries. After halving, weigh out 2 lbs. berries, or measure 4 1/2 level cups of berries, packing solidly into the cup until juice and fruit come to the top of the cup. Add 7 level cups (2 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Boil hottest fire and stir constantly for 40 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in 1/2 cup Certo. Skim and stir repeatedly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire, to cool slightly. Pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot waxed paraffin.

The short boiling time results in only a slight loss of the delicate flavor and the darkening in color which used to occur during the old long boil. It also gives you a larger amount of jam, since you save the large quantity of juice which used to be lost away.

Certo is a pure fruit product—the jellylike substance of fruit retained and bottled. A book of simple recipes comes with each bottle.

Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c for price list and get a trial 4-ounce bottle which will make from 4 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly. Depending upon the recipe used. Address: Douglas-Fletcher Corporation, 5452 Granite Building, Rochester, N. Y.

Walsh Picks Paul Berlenbach

To Defeat Young Stribling Tonight in Titular Bout—Capacity Crowd of 60,000 Expected to See the Bout.

New York, June 10.—According to zoological data, the elephant is the only jungle animal the tiger won't attack just for the sheer sake of starting something and perhaps it would be a good plan for W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia challenger, to remember that tonight.

Stribling, in action, is pretty much of a ripping, tearing tiger but he will meet ponderous Paul Berlenbach in a fifteen round bout for the world's light heavyweight championship and that's distinctly different. One rips and tears an elephant's hide like the skin of a cannonball and when he steps on one, the party most concerned may consider himself thoroughly stepped on. The writer thinks Berlenbach will win.

Three weeks ago, I might have likened Stribling for this bout, for the night he stepped out with Johnny Risko, he was every inch a real champion. But the boy, down to 173 pounds yesterday, seems to be trained too fine, which means that probably he has left the last seven rounds of this fight in the gymnasium.

It also would mean that some of his natural speed will not be with him and it's an excellent bet that he'll need all of it to keep away from Berlenbach for fifteen rounds. In fact, there is a reasonable doubt in the writer's mind that Stribling will be able to do that, even if he enters the ring trained to a fault.

Berlenbach may be as graceless as a sacred ox but he has the punch and it would seem that Stribling hasn't in his stolid purposeful way, Berlenbach will land that punch many times before the end of fifteen rounds and I believe that, after the tenth, he will have cut Stribling down to his own speed.

Popular rumor has Berlenbach with a weak chin and Stribling with a weak midriff but I discount both. As far as is known, Stribling hasn't been hurt in all the fights he has had while Paul has been hit on the pot, many times and oft but, with one exception, has contrived to live the situation down. That punch, a right hander by Jack Delaney, was good enough to goal Dempsey; yet Berlenbach was on his feet at nine. He had the will to get up but lacked the strength to stay there.

The wise money held Stribling a favorite for the past ten days but indications are that even money will prevail today, with the possibility that the champion will get the call in the last minute rush.

Tagging Major League Bases

The Pirates finally reached the top of the National League scramble by beating the Phillies, 9 to 7, in ten innings. Cuyler's single with the bases full drove the last nail in Philadelphia's coffin.

Cincinnati lost to Brooklyn, 4 to 3, also in ten innings, and slid back into second place. Dazzy Vance fanned fourteen men during his nine innings on the mound.

The sensational Braves ran their winning streak to seven straight by polishing off the Cubs, 6 to 3. A four-run rally in the first inning provided a winning margin for Joe Genewich, who stood for little or no nonsense from the Cubs.

The Giants clinched their hold on sixth place by folding up under the shots of Wee Willie Sherdel of the Cardinals. Al Tyson, New York outfielder, returned to the game and got a homer, but his mates couldn't hit in the pinches and lost 4 to 2.

Coming from behind late in the game, the Yankees nosed out the Tigers, 4 to 3, and increased their lead over Philadelphia to eight and one-half games. Huggins used two young pitchers, McQuid and Braxton, and got away with it.

The Athletics could do nothing with the pitching of Thomas, White Sox rookie, and lost 4 to 1.

Cleveland took another game from Washington, 11 to 5. Jamieson and Burns got four hits apiece for a perfect day at bat.

The Browns cut another large slice of Boston Pie, drubbing the Red Sox 6 to 4 for their tenth victory in fourteen games at home.

Hasbrouck's Won Game.

The Hasbrouck Juniors defeated the Junior Gully All-Stars at South Rondout by a score of 12 to 10. Battery for the Gullys, Woods and Arnold. South Rondout, Kozlowski and Maurer.

will be in for a traffic rally. New York having gone loco on this match. The advance sale yesterday was more than $100,000, a new local record, which also included the receipts of the Dempsey-Firpo match. Most of the tickets for the latter, which grossed over a million, were sold the day of the fight.

Tex Rickard said today he expected Berlenbach and Stribling to draw a quarter of a million dollars gross, with a capacity crowd of nearly 60,000 in the stands at the Yankee Stadium. Twenty dollar ringside seats were hawked at forty today and a fine time was being had by all.

The principals will weigh in at 175 pounds at two o'clock this afternoon. After that, there will be nothing for it but that patiently impatient wait for the bell.

Cardinals Have Leading Pitchers

JESSE HAINES.

Jesse Haines, the Cardinal twirler was one of the members of the St. Louis staff who received a rating among pitchers who appeared in 10 or more full games during the 1925 season. Many a game during last year's campaign Haines proved a valuable nugget to Manager Rogers Hornsby when the Card's leader was sorely in need of a twirler to help uphold their league standing.

Two other members of the Cardinals' pitching staff rank among the leaders in pitching efficiency in the official National League averages. Bill Sherdel and Arthur Reinhart are the southpaws who stand in the front line in the collection of 74 hurlers who are registered in the official statistics.

Bill Sherdel, a wee mite of a portlander, proved that brawn is not necessary to fool opposing fence busters. He compiled an average of .714 with 15 victories and six defeats for first place in pitching percentage.

Reinhart ranked from the Syracuse club of the International League in June, was not many laps behind Sherdel. He was third with 11-5 .688 and also third in pitching efficiency with an earned run total of 3.04.

K.G.&E. Defeated Artisticals, 11-6

After the Artisticals had led the K. G. & E. team up until the fifth inning, Bannan made an error on an easy grounder, and the Gasmen were able to score two runs and take the lead on the play. In the sixth inning they sewed the game up by making six runs. The win put the Gasmen in second place, undisputed, in the Industrial League.

Knight was the big noise of the game, getting three hits, two of them being triples. Disch led the Gasmen with two doubles.

Colonials Play At Poughkeepsie

The Kingston Colonials will play the first of the midweek ball games on Wednesday, June 16, when they will travel to Poughkeepsie and play the Beckwith Cleaners. The game will be called at 6 o'clock. Again on Saturday, June 19, the Colonials will travel to Poughkeepsie to play the Beckwiths. It will be remembered that the Beckwiths opened the ball season here this year when they met defeat at the hands of the Colonials by a score of 8 to 4.

Both Fighters Are Confident

New York, June 10.—Both champion and challenger were in a confident mood today when questioned about the outcome of tonight's battle for the world's light heavyweight championship.

"The championship will move south to Dixie tonight," said Young Stribling, the Georgia challenger. "I will surely defeat Paul Berlenbach. I expect to knock him out. Risko knocked him down three times and should have finished him. I'll knock him down and, if he gets up, I'll finish him."

However, Berlenbach's statement was just as confident. "I still will be champion when the fight is over," he declared. "I may not knock him out but I will give him a lacing he won't forget in a hurry. Stribling is not as tough as some of the fighters I have met and defeated. I will dull his speed with body punches and the rest will be easy. Watch me from the tenth round on."

Dr. Michael Heads DUSO League

Local Superintendent of Schools Chosen President of DUSO League — Move to Adopt State Competitive Rules.

Dr. Myron J. Michael, superintendent of schools of Kingston, was elected president and the delegates voted to consider the adoption of the state competitive rules to govern future athletic contests in the organization when the annual meeting of the DUSO League was held at Poughkeepsie Wednesday morning.

Ward C. Moon, superintendent of schools of Poughkeepsie, who retired as president, was chosen vice-president. Ernest H. Burdick, superintendent of schools of Middletown, secretary, and Arthur Naylor, superintendent of schools of Port Jervis, treasurer. Present also was Snyder J. Gage, superintendent of schools of Newburgh.

The move to adopt the state competitive rules is preliminary to actual adoption, notice of 30 days to the league's members being required. It is expected that adoption of these rules under which the majority of interscholastic competitions in the state are held will grant greater leeway to DUSO League players inasmuch as the scholastic requirements which must be met by the individual players before they are eligible to compete are less stringent than those now in force under the league's rules.

Tuesdays' Star Won.

Tuesday evening the fast Tuesdays' skill ball team defeated School No. 2 by a one-sided score of 10 to 0. The pitching of Britner and Ratchle for the winners featured, the losers getting only four scratch hits. In the sixth inning Britner of Tuesdays' hit one over the center fielder's head which looked like a sure homer but a quick recovery by the fielder and a long pop to Second caught Britner at the plate. The Tuesdays' team lined up as follows: Britner and Ratchle, p.; Dugan and Wenzel, c.; Miller, 1b.; Ratchle, 2b.; O'Neil, 3b.; Dougherty, s.; Rice, l. c.; Leonard, c. l.; and Turner, r. f. For School No. 2, Rogers and Sherman pitched with special coaching. The Tuesdays' are a newly organized club and would like to book games with teams ranging in age from 12 to 18 years. Teams desiring games should telephone 329-W or 1122-W.

Tris Speaker Consistent Hitter

This Speaker, veteran manager and center fielder of the Cleveland Indians, has fallen below the 300 mark in batting just once. That was in 1919 the year he succeeded Lee Fohl as pilot. Speaker hit 296 that season. Though he has been in the big show continuously since the latter part of 1908, Speaker has topped the league's batters on only one occasion. He turned the trick in 1916, beating Cobb out after a hectic struggle. Speaker's triumph, by the way, brought a temporary halt to Cobb's sensational string of clouting championships that had run to nine.

Baton First Used by Conductors in Church

Ludwig Spahr, famous violinist, conductor, and composer, who is known to the general public chiefly by his oratorio, "The Last Judgment," and his song, "Rose, Softly Blooming," was the first to use a baton for conducting a large orchestra in England.

But, like Salomon, who became famous ten or fifteen years ago as the man who conducted without a baton, he was simply reviving in a more convenient form an older custom.

The use of the baton is, in fact, a very ancient one, though the manner of its use has varied. It probably arose from the fact that in the larger churches, and especially on great occasions, the director of the choir had a staff of office something like a bishop's crozier, but with a different head. This he held in his left hand while directing the singers with the right.

Now and then, however, he had to recover the attention of his singers, when he would stamp on the floor with his staff, doing the same thing also on occasion to keep them together.

In later times, when boys began to take part in the singing, he used it as a means of chastisement, and gradually transferred it entirely, to the right hand. We may, therefore, say that both conducting with a baton and conducting without one come from the same ecclesiastical methods.

Chinese in Unique Appeal

Six thousand Chinese employees of one of the largest tobacco factories at Pootung, across the Wungang river from Shanghai, took a day off and, joined by other thousands, paraded the streets with banners, Joss sticks and shooting firecrackers on an appeal to the gods not to let the Yangtze river run dry. An ancient legend has it that years ago an old priest of diabolical intent came to Shanghai from north of the Yangtze and raised havoc. Finally, in despair, the natives of Shanghai fled Pootung river and drove him back to his native haunts. Ever since then the natives have been afraid that he might come back. But the only condition permitting his return would be the drying of the world's third largest river. Next year the function will be repeated.

Mirrors Lead Charm

Mirrors and pictures are vying for places on the walls of our homes today. Everywhere portable mirrors are being placed. One of the most interesting situations is between the second and third and the third and fourth of the series of three windows that most apartment living rooms possess. The very narrow space between these windows accommodates a convenient pocket mirror very well. Because it is translucent this mirror will seem to have more life and glow in it than the mirror enclosed in a frame.

Today an "Uncle Victor" he is riding master of a Detroit hunt club. A dozen years ago Tareff frequently dined with the czar and the grand duke, and his family was one of the wealthiest in Russia. Seven years ago he fled from Russia in haste with what was left of his fortune hidden in a cask of rum, and in a land of bread a great diamond-set badge was given him by the czar. McKenzie Saw The Bottle Passed

A despatch from Port Jervis says that a ripple of excitement marked the session of the firemen's convention Wednesday morning when President Henry E. McKenzie discovered that a bottle was being passed among some of those present in the rear of the convention hall.

"Everybody, of course, has his own views on the Volstead Act," remarked President McKenzie very distinctly, "and each man must be master of his own actions, but I want it understood that this hall is not to be considered as a miniature barroom."

The words were greeted with loud applause from the delegates.

It is believed that the "thirsty ones" were numbered among the visitors rather than the delegates.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 10.—After early irregularity, in which the market was called upon to absorb considerable profit-taking, industrial stock prices resumed their moderate rally today, under the lead of the motor and specialty stocks. Meanwhile a move in the railroad stocks carried prices of New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Railway, etc., to a slightly higher range in fairly active trading.

General Motors wrested the leadership of the bullish movement from United States Steel common and moved up briskly to 133, for a new gain of about three points. Bearish drives against Mack Trucks sent that stock down three points to 193 1/2, but it recovered most of the lost ground. Hudson Motors shifted back and forth a few times between 62 and 64.

Reactionary trends dominated the other principal groups of stocks, including the oils, coppers, tobaccos, sugars, equipment and specialties. A softening of the western wholesale gasoline market accounted for the weakness in oil stocks, most of which sold down to the lowest prices of the week to date.

Big Increase in Customs Revenue

Customs Collections For Year Ending June 30, Will Amount to $400,000,000—New York Principal Port of Entry.

Washington, June 10.—America's continuing prosperity was reflected today in the announcement at the treasury that customs collections for the year ending June 30, will amount to nearly $600,000,000.

Already exceeding last year by over $30,000,000 receipts are expected to surpass the treasury estimate by at least $40,000,000 establishing an all-time record.

Indications point to imports valued at $4,000,000,000, the tariff collections amounting to approximately 13 per cent of this figure. It cost the government less than three cents on the dollar to collect the tariff.

The Canadian border patrol was given credit for more than $1,000,000 increase in customs collections. A big quantity of agricultural products and merchandise, formerly smuggled over the border, was diverted through the customs port. New York will maintain its record as the principal port of entry for the country. In the ten months ending May 1 New York collected $272,000,000, or fifty-four per cent of the entire customs bill to that date. A few years ago this port was credited with over 70 per cent of the entire collection.

Officials explained that there has been a tendency since the war to divert imports to other ports and while New York has gained steadily its relative importance as an entry port has fallen.

Boston made a heavy gain and is expected to surpass Philadelphia for second customs honors.

$510 for An Old Print

At a recent auction at the American Art galleries in New York of early American prints of N. Currier and Currier and Ives some high prices were paid.

The print entitled, "The Lightning Express Trains," brought $420; the "Clipper Ship Lightning," sold for $310; an American frontier scene, "The Hunter's Straggle," was bid in at $300, and many others brought from $100 to $250.

It is remarkable the popularity of these old lithographs, which cannot claim any great merit as works of art. They depict our early American life, and are being bought extensively by collectors. Seldom is it that one of these collectors will part with a rare Currier unless it is to secure a still more rare one.—The Antiquarian.

The Perfect Flop

The applicant for a job looked all right to the large executive. His face had the requisite "listening look," so necessary to men of vision. He was neat and clean.

"You have letters of introduction?" boomed the L. E. in his largest official voice.

"Yes, sir. Here they are, three of them."

"And what do they say?"
"I beg pardon, sir?"
"I said, 'What do they say?'"
"Why, naturally I haven't read them. Sir. They are addressed to you."

"Haven't read a letter of introduction?" The L. E. snorted, handing them back. "Well, if you're not that curious you're not human, and we've got no use for you in this concern. Good day!"

A Pardonable Error

Nine o'clock in the evening. The sidewalks of the Avenue de Wagram are thronged. The entrances to movie houses flame with lights and in front of the Salle Wagram, great posters announce a costume ball. A luxurious limousine rolls up and stops before the doors, and from it two figures emerge—a majestic personage in a voluminous scarlet robe, followed by a second, clad in violet. Reveries, no doubt, the crowd presses closer to see. But the masks reveal themselves as Cardinal Dubois and Monseigneur, Roland Gosnell, attending the closing session of the diocesan congress. The ball is scheduled for the following night.—From Le Figaro, Paris. (Translated for the Kansas City Star.)

RADIO

Wiring Diagram of the Five-Tube, Three-Control Radio-Frequency Receiver Described in This Article.

By HARRY J. MARK
in New York Herald-Tribune.

Simplicity, efficiency and high quality, all combined, are the arguments for the receiver described in this article. The circuit was first worked out from a simplicity and efficiency angle. Trick features have been eliminated, but every possible little development for improvement in operation has been incorporated.

The circuit is shown in the illustration. Two stages of highly efficient tuned radio frequency amplification, a detector and two real stages of audio-frequency amplification certify to long distance range and the best of tone quality in reception.

Three low-loss pickle bottle coils, combined with high quality straight-line frequency condensers are the major factors in selectivity. The oscillation control permits operation just below the oscillation point of the tube and insures maximum performance with the best tone quality and a minimum drain on the "B" batteries.

One of the particular features of this circuit is the efficiency of the audio stages, not only in the selection of good transformers, but also in the proper use of by-pass condensers in order to filter out all stray radio-frequency currents and extraneous noises. There remains much that is still to be learned about the intelligent use of by-pass condensers.

"C" battery in the grid returns of the audio transformers is another factor in good audio amplification. The loud speaker can be plugged in on either the first or second stage jack of the audio-frequency amplifier. The last jack is filament control for the last tube, so there is no unnecessary current consumption when only the first stage is used.

Size of Set.

The use of a 24-inch panel makes the set a compact one without unnecessary crowding and interstage coupling, which would be detrimental to satisfactory operation. There is no over-crowding in the panel layout and each of the controls is so placed for convenience in tuning. The use of real vernier dials makes tuning a pleasure. The controls are by no means complicated or difficult to operate. A rheostat is used for the detector tube, another for the two radio-frequency amplifier tubes, and a third for the audio stages. The sockets are universal and therefore permit the use of either storage battery or dry cell types of tubes. A resilient spring action in the socket design assures a perfect contact and the elimination of microphonic noises by its non-rigidity.

Nine binding posts on a raised strip are easily accessible and make battery connections a simple matter. Everything is easily assembled and wiring is a simple, rapid operation, with none of those tricky inaccessibilities.

Winding Form Is Easy to Make From Tubing

The basket-weave form of winding is one of the most compact efficient methods known. With it most any kind of coil or inductive tuner can be made. It has the following features that make it desirable for most every use: compactness, low loss, low capacity, low or no dielectric losses and then knot tightly. The coil can now be removed and is ready for use. If the builder desires he may leave the coil in the form. It will always hold the coil in shape and serves as a mounting.—Cleveland News.

Variable Grid Leak

A suitable set of values for a grid leak would be 1 megohm, 2 megohms, 3 megohms, 5 megohms and 1 megohm. A means may be provided for bringing these values in action, which may be secured by wiring a tap switch so that it may be used to switch any one of a number of grid leaks into the circuit. This will provide a definite, positive value of grid resistance to suit the requirements of various groups of stations, according to their distance and power.

Of Interest to the Amateur

Much better results may be had from a homemade receiving set if all parts are bought instead of trying to make them. In many cases of trouble shooting it is necessary to rebuild the entire set, which costs more than building it right in the first place. There is also nothing gained in purchasing cheap material. Losses which show up in radio frequency work are what count and the difference between good and bad reception.

Loop One Foot Square

A loop one foot square will work with a sensitive receiver. For the few cross-pieces in the shape of an X and attach the upright piece to one of them. Cut slots in the end of each of the four ends of the cross-piece to receive four pieces of hard rubber 7 by 3 by 1/4 inch. Now wind 24 turns of loop wire or standard single lamp cord one quarter inch apart about the rubber pieces set perpendicular to the frame of the loop.

Brazil Quits League Council

Geneva, June 10.—Brazil today tendered her resignation from the League of Nations Council.

Brazil's action follows a long controversy over the re-organization of the League Council and the failure of the Council to accede to Brazil's demand for a permanent seat on the council.

Mello Franco, the Brazilian delegate to the council, made a lengthy speech in which he outlined the history of Brazil's claims for a permanent seat on the council, and concluding he said:

"Brazil no longer accepts the honor of sitting on the council and therefore resigns."

The Brazilian delegate did not indicate whether Brazil intends to resign from the League or not.

All Celebrities Are Only Human

Joe Mitchell Chapple Tells Kingston Rotarians They All Yearn For Friendliness—He Normal Is Way to Enjoy Life.

Kingston Rotary Club members and their wives dined at The Governor Clinton Wednesday evening, and listened to an address by Joe Mitchell Chapple, orator, editor, globe trotter, story teller, good mixer, personal friend of presidents, princes and longshoremen, citizen of the world, but first, last and all the time, American. After the address the Rotarians and their ladies danced and it is needless to say that, in the words of the old time country newspaper, "a good time was had by all present."

Mr. Chapple, editor of the National Magazine, resident of Boston, although rarely at home, and member of the Boston Rotary Club, came to Kingston fresh from a visit with the Crown Prince of Sweden. The "Royal Swede" is just an ordinary human being, Mr. Chapple said, with a desire to be friendly and a longing for friendship and kindness. In fact, said the speaker, we are all human, and although I have met kings, queens, aces, royal flushes, they are all the same. They eat, drink, breathe and probably snore and they all yearn for friendliness. I have chased celebrities like others chase butterflies. It is easier to chase celebrities than mediocrities.

The address was a typical Joe Chapple talk, rambling over the wide world, all of it interesting and witty. From Washington to Baghdad and from Baghdad to Spain, "all over America and to Panama and Belgium, the speaker roamed, carrying his audience with him.

Bagdad he described as looking like a busted mining town under tin roofs and the filth of ages. King Albert of Belgium was described as he was 20 years before the war and today. There were sketches of McKinley, Mark Hanna, Harding, Coolidge and a host of others and the lesson of it all was that they were all just folks and to do something for somebody else, be natural and be yourself was the way to enjoy life.

Mr. Chapple was introduced by E. E. Fessenden, an old friend through whose good offices he was brought to Kingston. Arrangements for the evening were in charge of Kenneth Everett, chairman of the Rotary Entertainment Committee, and the 70 persons in attendance were unanimous in the desire that Mr. Everett put on another program without waiting too long.

Strike for Happy Medium

Far be it from us to decry an aspect of hominess in a room. A room to be successful must have the appearance of being lived in, otherwise it will be the cold, impersonal showroom of the decorator. There is a happy medium, and it is this that the owner of good taste must strive for in furnishing and decorating his home.

Shoes of Old Romans

Shoes were commonly worn by the Romans. Senators wore a special style reaching to the middle of the leg, colored red and bearing a silver crescent just above the foot. Men of Rome usually wore black shoes, except in the case of one holding public office. In this case the shoes usually were red.

Timely Test

It is not enough for the people of a community to be of one mind," says the editor of the Tifton (Ga.) Gazette, "they also must be as one in action if the community is to go forward. Unity of thought, hope and expectation does not amount to much unless there also is unity of action."

HIGHLAND.

Highland, June 10.—Friday, June 4, was a red letter day. If you live here and are in something of a quandary where to go for a good time you will find it in Highland, which furnishes infinite variety, innumerable attractions, delightful climate, and no end of entertainment, something for every day and every evening. The Auxiliary Club has a special claim on some of the people and it is evident they are very popular from the interesting meetings on the first and last Fridays in every month. Last Friday Mrs. Albert Martin and Mrs. Myron Smith were hostesses to a large delegation of the club. The room was decorated with flowers and tables were arranged about the room, seating from six to ten. After being received by these ladies and when business was finished, all were seated at the tables for a social time and to enjoy the luncheon, consisting of brown and white bread, sandwiches, fruit salad, raspberry jelly, pickles, cottage cheese balls, delicious home made cake, coffee and orange punch. These were tempting and all partook of them heartily. At the time of departure everyone gave to the hostesses the appreciation which they deserved. Everyone was amiable and agreeable and all were sorry when they had to leave for their respective homes, for the afternoon had been such a delightful social affair.
